ILL --DEATH TODAY OF MRS. ELIZA-BETH STREETS.

> -Runaway Accident Adds to Excitement.

A runaway accident occurred this morning about the time an alarm of fire was turned in for a fire in South Washington at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Streets, No. 1241 2d street. While the damage to the house was not great, Mrs. Streets received burns from which she soon afterward died. The acher home. A weight was attached to the animal at the time, but it soon became unfastened and time, but it soon became unfastened and there was nothing left to check the animal's gait as it sped south on B street to the foot of the hill at 1st street west. In front of the of the hill at 1st street west. In front of the Driscoil Hotel the express wagon collided with an automobile owned by Dr. Kemp of 433 G street and demolished the electric vehicle. A bicycle owned by George Moy of 354 Pennsylvania avenue was wrecked by the runaway team and four tree boxes were demolished. Two small trees were pulled from the ground and then the animal fe'll and was injured. The horse remal fell and was injured. The horse re-ceived a number of bruises and scratches and the wagon was partly demolished. Rob-ert Hardin of 906 D street southwest was the driver in charge of the team.

FAMILY TROUBLE IN COURT.

Principal Offender Fined $200, With Jail Sentence as Alternative. The settlement of Burrville, a suburb near Benning, was well represented at a trial in the United States branch of the Police Court today, as was also the Washington family. There were George, Martha, Annie, Mabel and several other Washingtons included, all in court for the purpose of having a misunderstanding between two families of the same name settled.

Annie E. Washington, a white woman raigned on a charge of assault and battery, preferred against her by Mabel Washing-ton, colored. From the evidence it de-veloped that the trouble between the elders started as the result of a quarrel among children Friday last. Mabel Washington sent her small brother on an errand, but he returned and reported to his sister that Mrs. Washington's five-year-old son had thrown stones at him. Mabel started for Mrs. Washington's home for the purpose of making a complaint, but met the latter and her son on the way.
"I started to tell her about her child," Mabel told Judge Kimball, "but she wouldn't listen to me and pulled out a revolver and shot at me.' "You didn't get shot, did you?" the court inquired.

"No, sir; but I was scared," she answered.
"That was natural," was the response.
Several other witnesses corroborated
Mabel, and in addition told of something Mabel neglected to tell the court. After Mrs. Washington fired the shot Mabel sent for a revolver, and upon receiving it she discharged it, but "in the direction of the ground."
Mrs. Washington admitted she had the re

Mrs. Washington admitted she had the revolver and fired it at Mabel, but only after the latter had shot at her.

"Mabel pointed her revolver at me, I did the same at her, and when she fired I fired also," the defendant told the court.

"It's a pretty bad thing for men to fight with revolvers," the court commented. "but with revolvers," the court commented, "but when women go at it with weapons like those it's awful. You will pay a fine of $220," his honor said, addressing the defendant, "or spend eleven months and twenty-nine days in iail."

Mrs. Washington's husband gave notice of his intention to have a motion for a new trial filed.

COMMANDER JORDAN DEAD.

Succumbed to an Attack of Pneumoni Early This Morning.

Lieutenant Commander J. N. Jordan of the navy, who has been on duty in the bureau of equipment since December last, died at his home, 1143 Connecticut avenue at 5 o'clock this morning from an attack of pneumonia. Funeral services will be held over his remains tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the interment will be made at Arlington cemetery.

Born in Ellsworthe, Me., in September, 855. Lieutenant Commander Jordan was appointed a cadet midshipman from the third Maine district in June, 1873. After graduation in June, 1877, he was assigned to the Ossipee, and served on that vessel until January, 1878, when he was transferred to the Constitution, and remained on that vessel a little over a year. He was on that vessel a little over a year. He was afterward successively attached to the Tennessee, Tallapoosa, Kearsarge, Vesuvius, Amphitrite and Essex, following which he served as inspector of ordnance at Hartford, Lynn and New Haven. His next sea duty was on the Marietta in 1900, in which year he reached the grade of lieutenant commander. Since that date he served on the Iris, Isla de Cuba, Celtic, Isla de Luzon and Solace. Most of this latter service was on the Asiatic station. On his return home in October. 1902. he On his return home in October, 1902, he was assigned to inspection duty at the General Electric Company's works, Schenectady, and afterward to duty as inspector of equipment at Columbia iron works Baltimore, and then to the bureau of equipment in this city. Out of a total service of nearly thirty years Commander Jordan served about twenty years at sea, a pro-portion much above the average.
